Media Release

The New guntert.com Gives Visitors More Information

Ripon, CA, June 17, 2009 – Guntert & Zimmerman is proud to announce the launch of their new completely redesigned company website – guntert.com. The G&Z Sales and Marketing Departments have worked together to bring a visual presence and clarity to the new website. It was the mission of its designers to produce a guntert.com that is easy to navigate and to get in contact with G&Z sales personnel for a quote on equipment.

One of the most informative elements to the new guntert.com is the features galleries associated with the slipform paving equipment. The visual representation of the features and explanation of their benefit to the customer gives clear evidence to G&Z's premier equipment design and productivity.

With all the information in one place, guntert.com can be a resource for any contractor searching for equipment to pave highways, airports, or canals, dig a trench, or address a unique application requiring high productivity. The homepage features a video which will be updated at regular intervals which will feature videos of jobsites, sales updates, and products. The new guntert.com will become an effective tool for communicating to the marketplace new innovations and products being produced by G&Z. The news section will be updated periodically with what is coming out of the production plant and minds of G&Z employees.

Guntert & Zimmerman's productive and dependable concrete paving products make it the most trusted and respected name in the market. Since its founding in 1942, G&Z has been known for their innovations and pioneering spirit to help make contractors as productive as possible. G&Z is constantly developing new technology and upgrading their existing product offering which includes a full range of slipform pavers, placer spreaders, mechanical dowel bar inserters (DBI), texture cure machines, and concrete plants. Whether your machine is new or has over 10,000 hours of operation, G&Z guarantees your satisfaction and our support. Guntert & Zimmerman is also a leader in the design and manufacture of canal construction equipment and bucket wheel trenchers along with other special equipment.
